

AyeMerp

Have you ever felt the lack of courage to confess your true feelings to someone because you fear getting rejected and the awkwardness if that special someone doesn't like you back?

If you do, then use Ayemerp to stop losing out on opportunities to further develop your relationships!

AyeMerp acts as a middleman between you and other people. With AyeMerp, you can express your feelings towards others without informing them. Your feelings would be stored and remained a secret unless the other person expresses the same feelings towards you.

AyeMerp is not restricted to dating or hookups, you can use it with friends, co-workers, parents and more!

How it works

1. Create an user account that represent yourself by adding a profile picture and personal details such as name, age, nationality, etc..
2. Add relationships with other users using built-in relationships such as co-worker relationship, parent-child relationship, etc.. You can have multiple different types of relationships with a single user.
3. Express your feelings to another user in your relationships with built-in relationship-specific feelings. Remember your feelings would be kept confidential as long as the other user does not reciprocate with the same feelings.
4. Once the other user in your relationship expresses common feelings towards you, you would be informed.